PAY LAST RESPECTS TO TAYLOR

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—Some of the best known athletes of the country stood beside the coffin of John B. Taylor at his home to-day and paid their last respects to the intercollegiate quarter-mile champion and the world's greatest negro runner, who died on Thursday from typhoid pneumonia. Many of the Olympic team of which Taylor was a member were present, including John J. Hayes, Martin Sheridan, Harry Hillman and Melvin W. Sheppard, and also many of Taylor's former teammates at the University of Pennsylvania and a host of men prominent in amateur and professional athletics. The University of Pennsylvania was also well represented.
